%%first_name%%,

Join us on September 15-17 for Stanford Medicine X 2017, the world's leading patient-centered health tech conference. This symposium is a catalyst for new ideas about the future of medicine and health care.

Mark DeSilets, Vice President of Engineering at Mizuho OSI will be presenting on "i²OR – The Intelligent Integrated Operating Room of the Future." Mark is a strategic leader with over 30 years of engineering experience and 18 years leading engineering and cross-functional teams. Recognized for creating and revitalizing research and development organizations, Mark is leading the way to develop a standard for OR system integration, control, and archiving.

%%first_name%%,

My name is Staci Walton, and I've recently joined the Mizuho OSI team as the South-East Regional Account Manager. For the last 10 years, I've worked in a medical device and capital sales role for cardiac and orthopedics products. I'm excited to transition my diversified experience to this new position, and I look forward to building a strong and supportive relationship with you.

I am excited to meet you and support your efforts to improve patient care. If I can be of any assistance, please contact me at (813) 597-8868 or swalton@mizuhosi.com. I'll be reaching out to you soon to schedule time for an on-site visit to introduce myself to you and the OR staff.

Kindest Regards,
Staci Walton
